TRANSPORTATION

Izhevsk is situated in the western part of the Middle Urals – 1,129 km eastwards from Moscow.

The most commonly used ways to get to Izhevsk are railway and air transport.

Most international flights arrive at two main Moscow airports – Sheremetyevo and Domodedovo.

The best way to get from the airport to Kazansky railway station (where the train to Izhevsk can be taken) or between the two airports – aeroexpress + subway. Taxi cars are rather expensive and traffic jams can cause the delay.

You can take a direct flight from Domodedovo airport to Izhevsk by Izhavia air company (2 flights daily).

There is a daily train «Moscow – Izhevsk – Moscow».
